

Brain tumors are the leading cause of cancer-related deaths in children, a heartbreaking reality that touches thousands of families and communities. Pediatric brain tumors are uniquely complex and challenging due to factors like the delicate nature of the developing brain, the difficulty of delivering treatment (chemotherapy/radiation), the need for highly specialized care, and the likelihood of lifelong side effects. High-quality medical care is essential, but survivors and their families also need a comprehensive array of supplemental services, programs, and resources to move forward.

For nearly 30 years, Making Headway Foundation has worked to bridge these critical gaps with compassion, expertise, and practical, family-centered solutions. Founded by parents who lived through this challenge with their own children, Making Headway provides free of charge support tailored to each family's needs. Our programs include hospital entertainment, educational advocacy, psychological counseling, personalized social work, bereavement care, college scholarships, pediatric neuro-oncology fellowships, tissue banking, medical research, special events, financial assistance, and more. Wholly dedicated to families facing pediatric brain and spinal cord tumors, Making Headway Foundation offers unwavering support, guidance, resources, and advocacy throughout every stage of care.

Your past support has had a profound impact on children with brain and spinal cord tumors and their families. However, the needs continue to grow and every contribution helps us assist more families and advance life-saving research. We invite you to give again (or for the first time) and be part of our ongoing mission to transform lives.

& JULIET

& Juliet is a vibrant new musical that reimagines Shakespeare's Romeo & Juliet with a twist—what if Juliet chose to live and create her own story? Instead of tragedy, audiences follow Juliet as she discovers independence, friendship, and joy, all set to a soundtrack of chart-topping pop hits like “Roar,” “Since U Been Gone,” and “Baby One More Time.” With colorful staging, humor, and big musical numbers, the show is designed to delight both teens and adults.

Perfect for all ages, & Juliet offers an empowering story about resilience, self-discovery, and writing your own future. It's a modern, uplifting take on a classic story that leaves audiences smiling and singing long after the curtain falls.

Theatre Review: Variety.com

“& Juliet makes for one of the most uplifting, irresistible, and energizing nights in the theater. It speaks directly to a young audience who may recognize their own journey on stage, but older audience members can appreciate their moment to liberate just as much, delighting in a more inclusive horizon.”
